3.1 Process of decision making:

As per Regulation 11 of the Punjab State Electricity Regulation Commission (Conduct of Business) Regulations, 2005 the petitions filed in the Commission are scrutinized by the Registrar of the Commission. In case there is any defect in the filing, the petition is returned to be re-filed within the specified time. Any person aggrieved from an order of defect in filing, can appeal before the Secretary of the Commission. After scrutiny, the petition is entered in the Register maintained for the purpose and is put up before the Commission for admission. The Commission may admit the petition for hearing without requiring the attendance of the party but shall not pass an order refusing admission without giving the parties concerned an opportunity of being heard. After admission of the petition by the Commission, notices are sent to the other party/parties. The other party/parties are given opportunity for filing the reply. Where the other party states additional facts, the Commission may allow the petitioner to file rejoinder. After the pleadings of parties are complete, hearings in the petitions are held. In cases of public importance, public hearings are also held. After hearing the parties, the Commission finally decides the matter by passing an order giving detailed reasons for the same.

All orders of the Commission are appealable in the Appellate Tribunal for Electricity set up by the Government of India at New Delhi.
